

As a long-time resident of Lake Elsinore, I have been pleasantly surprised at the growth our city is experiencing but grown frustrated with the lack of foresight and leadership from our current district representation.

I'm running for city council to shape our city's future. I believe our city can do a better job managing our homeless problems, traffic issues, attracting more businesses and managing our public safety partners.

My wife and I are raising our family here. I own a business in the city. My parents live in the city. We are in desperate need of leadership that doesn't involve the pursuit of the next political rung but leading our city into the future.

In talking with residents in our district, I've learned many of you have the same frustrations and I'm the guy who can help make the needed change.

Having served on the city's planning commission, I know the opportunities available to us and have the experience needed to move us forward.

Please visit my web site www.carroll4le.com to learn a more about me and where I stand on the issues. I hope I can count on your support and thank you for your vote.